

XM Satellite radio is the best thing to come along since the invention of radio! the reason I switched to XM satellite radio, is because I am tired of 5 minutes of music and 15 minutes of useless stupid commercials, trying to sell me a product or service that I don't want or need! In addition, if the broadcasters are really concerned about XM now broadcasting weather and traffic reports, then why do they only slot a couple of minutes to relay the information to the listeners? And talk about not being able to understand the reports! The traffic reporters use a special code, that no one listening has any clue what the heck they are talking about! It sounds more like they are at an auction, trying to sell pork bellies, rather than providing traffic information. My suggestion to the FCC is bug off! We don't need you dictating what I am paying for! I choose to subscribe to XM satellite for my reasons and if commercial is losing their shirt over it, too damn bad!

Stop talking so much about nothing and cut back and garbage commercials and maybe, just maybe people will come back. I won't. XM satellite radio forever!
